

Watering quiz

Now, test your understanding by matching the answers to the questions as shown

Why is it vital to water a newly planted plant?—

daily

What is a poor watering method?

to restore moisture levels

What can happen when roots are exposed to the air?

early morning

What should you do for a plant until it is established?

the plant loses water

How often should you water a plant in the first 2 weeks after planting?

long, thorough watering at the base

What is a good watering method?

situation (e.g. sun or shade)

Which is the best time of day to water a plant?

every 2 to 3 days

How often should you water a plant in the third month after planting?

water it regularly and consistently

Three factors that influence the amount of water a plant needs are plant type, soil texture and the planting _____ .

lightly watering the soil surface over a broad area